STATE BUREAU
SLASHES RATES
ON INSURANCE

New Tariff Will Become Effective On July 27.

THREE-YEAR PLAN
Reductions Will Range
From 16-23 to 25
Percent.

A reduction in insurance rates ranging from 16-23 to 25 per cent on dwelling houses and certain classes of mercantile risks will become effective in East Liverpool on July 27, T. B. Sellers, manager of the Ohio Inspection Bureau, Columbus, advised insurance agents today.

Rates On Dwellings Listed.
The new rates for dwellings, according to insurance men, are the lowest which ever prevailed in East Liverpool.

The rate on one-family frame dwellings under the new schedules is 40 cents for $100 insurance for a three-year policy. The present rate for the three-year policy is 50 cents. The new rate on the one-family brick dwelling is 30 cents for $100 on the three-year term as compared with 40 cents, the present rate. Corresponding reductions on double and other dwellings and household furnishings have also been adopted.

Another Reduction Promised.
Heretofore, most mercantile and other risks not specifically rated were based upon the one-year plan.
Under the new tariffs, agents are permitted to write insurance on these risks for a period of three years, the policy being figured at two and one-half times the one-year rate. This

WITH her two new ships, Bremen and Europa, Germany hopes reasonably to take the cream of the trans-Atlantic traffic from the British.

Mussolini, not the Cunard or White Star company, is first to answer Germany's challenge.

Italy is building ships planned to cross the ocean in four days.

AIR and rail passengers from Seattle would leave home on Monday, land in Europe the following Sunday.

THE next step in transportation, all the way by air, will enable the merchant of Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, any Pacific coast city, to leave his home in town on Monday, inspect fashion models in Paris, and return to exhibit them in his store the following Monday.

MAN consistently surpasses the performances of nature.

Locomotive and automobile outrun
the deer. Airplanes already outfly any bird, and will do better when they stop imitating birds and create an entirely new plane.

BULLS of Bashan bellowed and were heard afar. The microphone talks around the world. Man's latest defeat of nature is the creation of an artificial ear "a thousand times more sensitive than the human, that picks up the faintest danger signals coming through the fog and tells the direction whence they come."

Anything that men can imagine,
they can do.

Standard Tanker is Destroyed By Blast Near Muskegon.

$150,000 DAMAGE

Sixteen Thousand Barrels Of Fuel Lost
In Flames.

MUSKEGON, Mich., July 18.—(INS)—
Three sailors were in hospitals here today with burns which probably will prove fatal, suffered when the Standard Oil company's tanker "Panoli," with 16,000 barrels of crude oil aboard, was destroyed by an explosion and fire.

The ship was about a half mile out in Muskegon harbor when a container exploded and burst into flames.
The crew made an ineffective attempt to bring the fire under control and abandoned the ship. The three injured men were carried to shore on a narrow plank wide enough to permit walking in single file only.

Loss was estimated at between $150,- 000 and $200,000. It was the second oil boat fire here within a week, the barge "Altamaha" having been destroyed, with her cargo of 8,000 barrels of crude oil, when struck by lightning.

20 PLANES LOST
IN STORM AREA

TORONTO, Ont., July 18.—(INS)—
The Ontario government was making frantic efforts today to learn the fate of more than 20 airplanes adrift in the wilderness areas of the northwestern sections of the province, near Long Lac.

The planes, all government owned and used in the forest patrol and survey service, were caught in a hurricane that felled huge trees, snapped telephone and telegraph cables and spread havoc throughout the district.

Two government planes were lifted from water moorings at Long Lac and blown 30 feet up the rock shore by the terrific sweep of the whirlwind.

COLUMBUS, O., July 18.—(INS.)— Out of an intangible maze of legal technicalities surrounding the case of Dr. James Howard Snook, came one reassuring fact today—that everything possible will be done to speed up jus-confessed killer of Miss Theora K.

free the man, send him to an insane

OHIO GOVERNOR HITS GREED IN CONSOLIDATIONS

Myers Y. Cooper Warns Against 'Selfishness'
In Mergers.

GROTON SPEECH

Co-operation in Law Enforcement is Urged
By Executive.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

GROTON, Conn., July 18.—Warning that the people will deal "with directness and force" in big utility mergers, that have for their purpose "selfishness and greed" was voiced by Governor Myers Y. Cooper of Ohio in an address today before the conference of governors. The right kind of consolidations, however, will meet with no objection from the public, he declared.

"If consolidations and enlargements bring to the people advantages of service and a consequent lowering of the cost, then benefits will accrue and such consolidations will prove of advantage to the people," said Governor Cooper.

Lauds President's Stand.
"If on the other hand great aggregations of wealth enjoying monopolistic privileges fail to contribute to the economic and social well being and use these enterprises for the purpose of selfishness and greed, the people will not be without remedy to deal with the situation and that with directness and force."

Governor Cooper declared an important question before the American people has to do with a proper regulation of great aggregations of wealth invested in enterprises of a quasi-public nature for general service to the people.

Speaking of law enforcement, Governor Cooper said President Hoover,
"with clarity and deep conviction," recognized in his inaugural address the great need for cooperation on the part of the people. He said this was a "challenge" to every individual citizen.

Rock Island Atlantic Express Crashes Thru Bridge.

STORM IS BLAMED

Cloudburst Weakens
Span Near Stratton,
Colo.

DENVER, July 18.—(INS)— Eight persons are known to be dead, a dozen others are feared to have been killed, and more than a score of passengers were injured early today when the Atlantic express, crack passenger westbound on the Rock Island railroad, crashed through a bridge on Spring creek between Vona and Stratton, 150 miles east of Denver.

Nine Cars Derailed.
Spring creek normally, virtually a dry bed, had been turned into a swirling torrent from a cloudburst that had also weakened the bridge.

Twenty passengers on the train are believed to have been drowned when one of the all-steel Pullmans plunged into the water.

Rock Island officials here said that nine cars of the train were derailed, only one, however, being completely submerged in the waters of the creek.

The engine and two cars of the train passed safely over the bridge, a 75-foot span across Spring creek. The third, car, in which virtually all the passengers are believed to have been trapped and drowned, went into the water. The next three cars piled up on the bank of the creek, one of them being partially under water.

One Coach Submerged.
Great confusion followed the wreck, which occurred just before sunrise in a sparsely settled section of the eastern Colorado prairie, not far from the Kansas line.

Surgeons, nurses and train wrecking crews were immediately dispatched to the scene of the disaster from Denver, Limon, Burlington and Goodland, Kans.

First rescuers to reach the scene were powerless to search for any possible living victims in the submerged car, which was buried in the sand beneath roaring waters of the flooded creek.

Cincinnati Man Aboard.
CHICAGO, July 18.—(INS)—Among passengers on the wrecked Colorado express, who were not injured, according to Rock Island officials here was

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or every increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.—Larkins, The Drug Man.—Adv.

New Traffic Regulations

Contrary to expectations, two-way traffic on both the east and west sides of the police tower in the Diamond, long a problem for visiting motorists, will not be permitted under new regulations which will become effective Saturday.

Paving the way for the plan which will be adopted when red-and-green traffic lights are installed at the St. Clair and Dresden avenue intersections of Sixth street, police have announced the traffic commission's approval of regulations which add several left turns bans to the worries of the automobile driver.

Hereafter southbound motorists in St. Clair avenue must turn to the right at Sixth street and proceed to Jackson street before they can make a left turn. Left turns also are banned off Sixth street at the Diamond; at Fifth street and the Diamond and for north-bound traffic at Broadway and Fifth street and southbound traffic at Fifth and Broadway. Thus motor cars coming down Fifth street from East End must turn left at Walnut, Washington or Jackson street.

As means of relieving the congestion that has been marked since the opening of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road, thus increasing traffic over Dresden avenue, the west side of the Diamond will be a two-way street. Thus motorists will follow the Main line street cars. On the other hand, only northbound autoists will be permitted to drive on the east side of the police tower.

While it is admitted that the bottle neck arrangement of the Diamond offers a problem, many motorists insist that north and southbound traffic on both the east and west sides of this zone would be less hazardous than the plan devised by the traffic commission and police. This is especially true from a stranger's standpoint.

The traffic commission and police department should endeavor to devise ways and means to permit four lanes of traffic in the triangular business district.

Federal Farm Board

The first words of Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm board, were that the group would start from "scratch," unhampered by predetermined formula for treatment of the farmer's ills. No positive theories are suggested, but it was intimated that all action will be based on the idea that the farmers must learn to do collective thinking to solve their problems.

Chairman Legge retired from the presidency of the International Harvester company to accept President Hoover's invitation to head the farm board and he is well versed in the technique of big business. He denies that business success is due to the money which it has at its control and says that the season for success is conference and collective thinking. Farm relief will be attempted on that basis, an idea which has already had sufficient trial to prove its worth. Money, too, is necessary and Chairman Legge points out that the money is available through the appropriation made by congress for the relief program.

Farm relief has subsided as a topic of conversation in sections of the country where the summer harvest is occupying all the attention. As a matter of fact, the farmer himself never did much talking; he was content to sit back and let the paid talkers carry on the discussion. Perhaps that is one of the difficulties.

Chairman Legge has suggested more conference. A very wise idea, if the conference does not end in idle talk and abstractions.

Canal's Banner Year

The present promises to be the banner calendar year of the Panama canal in the matter of productive tonnage handled, and thus naturally also in the matter of tolls. The first six months of the year 3,228 commercial vessels passed through the great waterway on which tolls to the amount of $13,84,081.68 were collected, a gain of $750,000 over the tolls for the corresponding months of 1928. Over the last six months of 1929 prove as productive in revenues as the first half of the year, the total tolls will be in excess of $27,500,000, which will break all records for the canal. Some contrast between $27,500,000 and $6,172,829 collected by way of tolls ten years ago!

The investment of the United States in the fixed property of the canal is $237,074,172 and there is an additional sum of $5,136,758 invested in canal transit equipment. This by no means represents the sum of our investment in the canal zone. Some years ago a part of the total cost of the canal was written off to national defense. The total thus written off, which now stands at $113,127,338, represents the cost of features and additional facilities, not including fortifications, military post, submarine bases and such matters, but included in the design of the canal for military or naval reasons, which could have been omitted had the canal intended to serve commercial purposes only, and it includes also the $40,000,000 paid to the French.

Thus, for the purpose of figuring the canal as a commercial enterprise, its cost may be placed at the figure stated, $237,074,172. In the fiscal year, 1928, the net income of the canal from tolls, taxes, licenses, fees, fines, postal receipts and such sources was $18,224,845, and the net profits of auxiliary business operations were $736,719, a total of $18,961,564. Considering the big gain in revenues for the first half of the present calendar year over the same period in the calendar year of 1928, the net profits for the present calendar year should closely approximate $20,000,000, which is a decidedly good return from an investment of $237,074,172.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the Panama canal was constructed primarily as a defense measure, that we might send our war vessels from one ocean to the other without making the long trip around Cape Horn or through the Straits of Magellan, the problem so splendidly negotiated by the Oregon during the Spanish-American war. The most enthusiastic champion of the canal at the time of its construction could hardly have imagined any such return as herein indicated from its use for commercial purposes. Yet the fact remains that the canal, as a commercial enterprise, is proving a fair investment, and there is every indication that the profit increase in tonnage handled will continue.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 18.—The effort to make supremely beautiful the capital of the United States is a never ceasing one and if it does not eventually become the world's most beautiful seat of government it will not be because anything that man can do to make it so has been neglected. A new life to the program of beautifying Washington has been given by the actual starting of work on the mammoth new buildings which are to house government departments and transform historic Pennsylvania Avenue from a street of mediocre if not downright unsightly appearance into one of the most superb thoroughfares in the world.

This work now has stimulated efforts along a new but allied line; that is, the improvement of the approaches to Washington. Projects have been launched which will make the entrance into the capital from every direction commensurate slightly with the structures and streets to be seen within the city limits.

One of the prime faults of American cities always has been their approaches. This has been due to the newness of the nation and the relative newness of the cities themselves. A city is founded, usually, for some commercial reason. It may have been that its first settlement was planted at a particularly favorable site for a dam and mill. That is frequently the case. It may be the head of navigation of a stream. Indeed, Washington was located adjacent to the famous colonial port of Georgetown because the latter city was at the head of navigation of the Potomac river.

Although Washington was one of the very few American cities which was deliberately planned in the first place, it has had the same experience as other cities. For years, Georgetown, continued to be a center of important commerce. The L'Enfant Plan existed, to be sure, but growth in population was so tardy that the plan was neglected for many decades until a heroic effort was required to bring the street plan into line with the original charts. That part of the job has been well done but there yet remain unproportioned approaches. These have become more important than ever because of the constantly increasing portion of visitors to Washington who come by automobile. At this season of the year Washington is visited by many thousands of tourists. Arrivals on trains frequently come in the night and miss the suburban unsightliness but the automobile driver almost invariably approaches in daylight.

Just now special attention is being centered on the approaches from the Virginia side. There are two new bridges across the Potomac river which must be spanned to enter the District of Columbia. The Key Memorial bridge is wholly completed, a magnificent structure. The Arlington Memorial bridge is in the last stages of construction. It spans the main channel of the river forming a graceful marble link between the grounds of the Robert E. Lee mansion comprising the Arlington National cemetery on the Virginia shore and the foot of the Mall. Approaching the capital, then, from the Virginia shore, one leaves the grassy, rolling knolls of Arlington to land at the base of the inspiring Lincoln Memorial with the Washington monument just beyond it, both set in the midst of the wide lawns of Potomac park where the Japanese cherry trees blossom every springtime.

The Key Memorial bridge, named after the writer of the Star Spangled Banner, also leaves the Virginia side near Arlington and lands on the Washington bank in the very heart of old Georgetown. The plans now being especially contemplated relate to the improvement of the approaches of these bridges on the District of Columbia side. The Arlington bridge will always deliver the wayfarer in the midst of Potomac park as this park is dedicated for all time.

The motorist, coming to Washington, may sweep in a wide curve away from the bridge and find himself on the broad way of Pennsylvania Avenue which will take him to the very center of the city. The heavy trucks—of which there are many for the Key bridge is a utilitarian affair bearing nearly all of the commercial vehicular traffic from Virginia and beyond—will be provided with a separate thoroughfare. For this, it is planned to fill in the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, now flowing directly through Georgetown, the canal planned by Washington himself.

Drawings and plans and some models have been made of these improvements and with congress apparently in the mood to provide ample funds for the beautification program these dreams seem likely of fruition.

Ritzzy Rosalie

Shifting from the choker rage we have the opposite tendency to show a bare neckline instead—and the absence of the usual tightfitting necklace is immediately noticeable. To counter-balance the lack of a necklace the bracelets and earrings are made heavier and looser, as a glance at Rosalie and her jewelry will show. However, the neckline is still worn, and it now takes the form of a very loose and heavy affair of threads of seed pearls or coral, which may be worn in any one of a half dozen styles, and even collect up to form a choker if one desires. The necklace as a rule is now worn so as to give at least a glimpse of a bare necked effect.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

LOS ANGELES, July 18.—This is The City They Tried to Laugh Off. I've heard sniggers dub it everything from an overgrown country town to the capital of Iowa. For years the general impression was that its activities consisted of retired yaps from the corn belt rocking themselves goofy on front porches.

Los Angeles pecked from its shell an ordinary civic chick. And before the populace realized it, became a full grown ostrich. There is no explaining the municipal monstrosity. But there it stands threatening shortly to become one of the three largest cities in America.

I know of no city—save perhaps New York—the target for so much ridicule and yet every year I find it has outgrown its clothes and is in new architectural dress. Manhattan's skyline make no quicker shifts. It presents an odd blending of the cosmopolitan and the yekel, the village and the metropolis.

In the crowds waiting for the train at the station I noticed a gentleman in pearl gray derby with a monocle eye screwed into an owl's stare. He was bespattered and boutonniere and might have just stepped out of the Savoy for a stroll along The Strand.

Close by was as near the comic paper pastel of the hayseed as one would ever see in real life. Meadow larks might well be nesting in the luxuriant foliage that almost reached his waist. One would have to go far back in the Arkansas hills to find a hill billy to match him.

Along its streets one may see an old desert hermit munching peanuts from a butcher paper cornucopia alongside a handsome movie shiek admiring himself in a window mirror. The tiniest hamlet at the cross roads cannot produce more pronounced rustic types than Pershing Square.

Nor will 5th avenue at its granddaddy hour present a greater cosmopolitan flair than the flow of pedestrian traffic along the main shopping artery. These are the vital contradictions that always meet the eye. They astound the visitor as much, I believe, as the native. He is still bewildered.

Movie moguls trekking westward to their studios disembark at San Bernardino. Here their block long cars with liveried attendants meet and bowl them off to their Spanish castles with flaming awnings and a patio in the cool Beverly canyons. Two I saw depart in this fashion were men who less than 30 years ago got their first glimpse of America through a porthole in the steerage. They still speak broken English and if that doesn't typify American opportunity—you think up one.

There is another custom of its fledgling days to which Los Angeles clings it "meets the trains." Young girls in fresh organdies along with white flannel, hatless lads stroll down to see the trans-continental express arrive. Not one puffs in without its quota of celebrities—mostly of the cinema world. No city its size entertains so many notables nor is any city so proverbial in its courtesy about them.

Greta Garbo walking along a Los Angeles street receives more frank staring than she would receive in, say, Dayton, O. And so pronounced is the celebrity complex in Hollywood, of all places, business would likely come to a full stop.

I mention Miss Garbo merely because she seems to be leading the pack in popularity at the moment. But ere this reaches print she may be one of the Back Numbers. Fame fugits out here and that tomorrow's spotlight may single out an obscurity of today for a quick whisk to fame is what makes this community tick with romance.

In making a two dollar purchase out of ten dollar bill shortly after my arrival I was returned eight silver dollars. "I hope you don't mind," thrilled the young lady cashier who lightly chuckled a chuckle up her sleeve. I didn't mind but when I got back home the load had yanked all the pleats out of my nice new pants.

The New Yorker finds himself awaking four hours earlier due to the change in time. And you can't sit up until midnight without the carache or a mess of tch.

I saw George McManus, the cartoonist, this morning wearing a lapel flower you would not believe could be that big. It looked like a Kansas sunflower on a foot.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

You must have a "crack in the eye" now and then as a warning to keep on the right track. It is more than easy to jog along in the same old way, fondly imagining everything is as it should be.

What caused this outbreak of mine is a letter just received from a man who is devoting himself to ventilation. He started out with some complimentary remarks about these articles, but they proved to be nothing more than the sugar-coating of a criticism. Let me quote:

"I note you quite frequently use a term that I believe scientific men should delete from their vocabulary. I refer to the expression 'fresh air.'"

"There is no such thing. Air is a more or less definite mixture of certain gases that do not change with time. Air may be warm or cool, dirty or clean, humid or dry, etc., but scientifically speaking, it is never fresh."

This is rather interesting, I think. Suppose I quote a little more from this thought-provoking letter:

"Fresh milk direct from the cow; vegetables from the garden, or fruit ripened on the tree are, of course, ideal. But our modern civilization requires pasteurized milk, filtered and chlorinated water, and many other refrigerated and artificially ripened products. No one questions the improved health conditions of city inhabitants from these artificial aids in bringing these necessary food products to the table in proper condition."

That is good sense, isn't it? I am sure we can endorse every word of it. But let us have another paragraph from the letter:

"Air in the country on a June morning is ideal. But city air is never ideal at any time. City air must always be cleaned, warmed, cooled, humidified or de-humidified, or otherwise treated as the specific case demands, to make it best suited to our health and well being."

I have no question that the city home of the future will have air conditioning systems, just the same as they now have central heat. There is just as much reason for making the air proper for human breathing as there is for making the temperature a comfortable one.

I shall say more about this in the future. In the meantime I thank our

How Strong Is Our Friendship? A recent sick spell may have caused you to wonder how many really true friends you have.

Also it may have convinced you that many of those who seem so friendly when you stop to speak to them while you are up and around, lose interest in you when you most need them.

Haven't you expected too much of the majority of the number you have classed as friends?

You have no right to expect more than you have done.

You have indicated to many persons that you feel friendly toward them.

But have you ever done more than use the telephone to inquire?

Did you ever visit the convalescing when it was a sacrifice on your part?

Did you ever send a bit of fruit or a flower that you could ill afford to buy, but which seemed all too little for a friend?

It is pretty easy to tell those who have recovered that you intended to call on them, but if the desire had been strong enough you would have gone.

Don't blame others for the sort of negligence of which you are guilty.

Hope Census Will Cut Living Costs. Comparatively few persons are aware that the new census which is to be taken next year is expected to be the most important ever planned by the federal government. It will gather data needed to cut down business expenses, and Secretary Lamont of the department of commerce says that its purpose is to bring about a "nation-wide reduction in the selling price of almost all the things which the head of the family has to buy." Nothing like this "distribution census" has ever been attempted before; but as the idea was conceived by Mr. Hoover while he was a member of the cabinet, it is safe to assume that it has been well thought out and is likely to prove valuable to business and therefore to the people of the nation.

In the beginning we were content merely to count the number of people in this country. Gradually the usefulness of the census has been extended. Now it includes statistics on agriculture, manufactures, mines, quarries, births, deaths, marriages, divorces, wealth, indebtedness, taxation, municipal and state finances and a wealth of other information. The greatest innovation in the bill authorizing this coming census is the plan to discover why the costs of commodities increase so much in moving from the producer to the consumer.

In the old days, according to Secretary Lamont, it was customary to blame all this on the middleman; but from preliminary investigations which have been made it is likely that this theory will have to be abandoned. In explaining it to the New York Merchants' association he called attention to the vast sums of money which American business has spent in reducing costs of production. The results have been truly amazing. The growing use of power, labor and time-saving machinery and modern improvements generally has increased the output per man by fifty per cent in the last twenty-five years.

Mr. Lamont is right in declaring that this is equivalent to an industrial revolution. Yet, while the costs of production have been decreasing, the costs of distribution have been increasing. Why? It will be one of the purposes of the new census to answer that question. The secretary asks the cooperation of business men everywhere in this great undertaking. Only by replying fully to all the questionnaires can the information be obtained. And on this will depend the nature of the remedy to be applied.

Statistics are usually dry and uninviting. But if the price of living can be cut this particular undertaking should appeal to every family in the United States.—Philadelphia Enquirer.

"SHOW BOAT" HIT
AS SCREEN STORY

The most gorgeous and colorful romance ever filmed.
That's Universal's super talking screen version of Edna Ferber's great novel, "Show Boat," now at the Ceramic theater.
It is an enthralling picture from start to finish and brings the novel to the screen with a faithfulness which gives the finished product all the charm and verve of the book, only instead of reading the book you see it acted out before you in a vivid way by a powerful cast amid settings of great beauty.
"Show Boat" as a motion picture,
we predict, will go down in screen history as one of the truly great pictures. It is a picture of such splendor and sweep that no one can afford to miss it.
Most of the action takes place on a show boat, one of those floating theaters which play the various landing along the Mississippi and Ohio rivers. These full sized theaters built on boats still actually play the small river towns.

This is the first time they have ever been brought to the screen. The ever-changing panorama of the Mississippi as the boat floats down it, the beautiful moonlit nights, the negro melodies wafted from the shore, the entrancing life on board the Show Boat—all are captured and presented with amazing beauty on the screen.

In the starring role as Magnolia Hawks, Laura La Plante gives a performance of great dramatic depth. As the little star of the show boat, protected from life and the influence of the trouper by her mother, Parthy
Ann Hawks, played by Emily Fitzroy, Magnolia elopes with her leading man,
the river gambler, Gaylord Ravenal, played by Joseph Schildkraut.

Schildkraut gives a notable performance as the gentleman gambler who turns show boat actor because of his love for the star, and yet, while an actor, he never loses his love for the gaming table. Trouble and unhappiness result from this weakness but the story goes ahead through adversity and triumph to a powerful happy denouement.

HUSTON STARS
IN PRESS STORY

Walter Huston, who gave notable legitimate stage performances as leading man in Eugene O'Neill's play, "Desire Under the Elms," "The Barker" and "Elmer the Great," has the principal role in Paramount's all-talking production of the Ward Morehouse stage success, "Gentlemen of the Press," now at the State theater.
Huston, in addition to his success on the legitimate and vaudeville stages, has been unusually successful recently in talking moving pictures. He played the part of Jean Valjean in the short dialog playlet, "The Bishop's Candlesticks," which George Abbott directed for Paramount.

TUNEFUL MOMENTS
IN "SPEAKEASY"

Although the Fox Movietone production, "Speakeasy," now at the American theater, is an all-talking picture, there are many tuneful moments furnished by virtue of Sharon Lynn's vocal talents and Henry B. Walthall's piano playing which are important parts in the relating of the story.

A great deal of the action takes place in one of New York's world famous thirst quenching palaces and Miss Lynn portrays the character of Maizie, entertainer, and Walthall takes the role of Fuzzy, piano player in the same "joint."

There are several decidedly new twists to the story and the singing of Miss Lynn and the piano playing of Mr. Walthall are woven into two highly dramatic episodes which are nervetingling.

Paul Page and Lola Lane, two newcomers to motion pictures, are cast in the leading romantic roles with Helen Ware, Warren Hymer, Ivan Linow,
Marjorie Beebe, Stuart Erwin, Erville
Alderson and James Guilfoyle in major characterizations.

RIVERSIDES

Cost as much to make as any high-grade tire . . . But—How about the selling price?

WE believe every motorist should know the facts that prove the high quality and explain the low price of RIVERSIDE tires. Here they are:

Take RIVERSIDE or any of the 5 or 6 leading tires on the market—remove the name—and there is comparatively little difference between them, "selling talk" notwithstanding. All of them are good tires. And all cost practically the same to make.

After all, practically all the high-grade tires, including RIVERSIDES, have the same amount of rubber and the same amount of cotton cord. The prices on these two materials are established market prices that every large producer must pay. Skilled labor and overhead costs are practically the same in all well-organized tire factories. Therefore, there is no good reason why the production costs of all first-quality tires should not be practically the same amount.

But, when you get to the selling prices, that is a different story. Take a 29 x 4.40, 16,000-mile RIVERSIDE Balloon as an example. Our selling price on this tire is $5.83—yet, when you buy any of the other five or six leading makes, of the same identical quality as RIVERSIDE, the selling prices range from $7.50 to $8.25 on this size—and on the larger sizes the difference is often $5 to $10 per tire.

Why, when cost-to-make is practically the same, this decided different in price to the buyer? The answer is simple as A B C. Buying RIVERSIDES, you pay only Ward's small profit over the manufacturing cost. Buying any other leading make, you pay the "in-between" profits required by the indirect method of distribution employed . . .

That, in a nutshell, is the whole story of RIVERSIDE prices.
That these prices are due solely to Ward's low SELLING costs, and not to any reduction in quality or cost of making, is proved by the figures already given . . . plus Ward's sale of millions of RIVERSIDES yearly under definite mileage guarantees of 16,000 and 30,000 miles.

Come in, Today! See for yourself
Why RIVERSIDES are to be compared only with the finest tires made—regardless of price.

PRAYER SERVICE HELD AT OUTING OF FOUR CONGREGATIONS AT PARK

METHODISTS, EPISCOPAL AND FREE; EPISCOPALIANS AND UNITED PRESBYTERIANS attended an outing at Thompson park yesterday afternoon and evening.

Headed by the Rev. C. R. Loney, assistant pastor; Otto Newlin, the superintendent, and Will T. McNutt, C. R. Boyce, Mark Brownlow and George Brockway, of the official board, members of the First Methodist Episcopal Sunday school gathered in the pavilion during the afternoon. They indulged in horseshoe games, hand ball and other diversions.

Dinner was served at 6 o'clock, following which the weekly prayer service was directed by the Rev. Mr. Loney.

BETWEEN BYOU AND ME

BY JOAN

There are some very exciting times in the lives of bargain hunters. I can tell you. I was visiting Bendheim's Shoe Store yesterday and made the startling discovery that they were selling all their Stetson shoes for ladies at $2.95 and their Cantilever shoes for only $8.75 a pair. Maybe I wasn't excited! Think I. "This will be good news for folks who already discovered how very comfortable and attractive these shoes are and splendid opportunity for those who have never had a pair, to become acquainted with them!" This "special" is for a short time only, so don't delay.

If folks only realized that proper lubrication saves costly repair bills on their cars, they'd drive down to Mill Iron's Grease Palace regularly. Understand, there are any number of folks who do, but it's just appalling, the multitude who never give a fleeting thought to the vital needs of their car. If you'll only ask your neighbor about the excellent service they receive at The Mill Iron Oil Gas Co. or better yet, drive right down and have them fill your crank-case with their oil now. Notice the smooth-running operation of your properly lubricated engine. Check your performance and economy against any motor oil you have used. Convince yourself!

I dare say, the wardrobe of a vacationist takes up a lot of time and thought these days. I might have said "A lot of money too," were it not for the July Clearance Sale at LEMMER'S. Going away on a vacation isn't the only reason for needing new dresses or a new hat, so why wait, when you may have your choice of any dress, from the airy, fairy chiffons to the strictly tailored affairs (and the hundreds in between) every one marked from 1-3 to 1/2 its former price?

Nor did we forget our men folks in our sleuthing around for interesting items. Passing Frank Diamond's Haberdashery, the window display became me "Come hither," and I lost no time doing so. Honestly they do have the best looking sweaters and knickers and golf hose. Just to wear them, would make any fellow a better game. And just to drop a hint to those generous wives who are always replenishing hubby's stock of shirts. You'll never find a finer assortment of shirts anywhere. They have a complete line of colors, styles and sizes.

Now for a splash, Flop! Nothing like a swim to make you feel you had the world literally by the neck. It's really important, though to have a comfortable bathing suit and we saw some at OGILVIE'S that would gladden the heart of every fair mermaid. They are firmly knit and glove-fitting in the water. Some feature the sun tan backs, others modestly low U shaped backs and say! there's every color of the rainbow and then some. You'll not be long without a beach coat, either, when you peek at the price tags on the ones we saw at OGILVIE'S.

Again we sing the praises of ALLEN'S better butter at The City Market. Every one who has tried it becomes a convert immediately. The reason? There's more than one, but the main one is: The cream used in making their butter is all tested then pasteurized and the most modern scientific methods are employed in its making. That's why Allen's butter never loses its sweet, wholesome flavor even in the hottest weather. They make both kinds, salted and unsalted.

Mothers! If you'll just take a supply of Clapp's Baby Foods with you for baby's feedings on the train, in the auto or at hotels, it certainly will simplify matters, baby's diet will not be changed and every one will have a more enjoyable time. Do you know Clapp's baby soups and strained vegetables? I notice they also had strained prune pulp. Just think how much easier it would be to prepare a nourishing meal for the very young child! Learn more about these products at the Carnahan's Drug Stores.

Gleaning back over the column we find we've bought several pairs of shoes, outfitted the Big Boys, gathered in one place, dresses and hats in a swim-suit, even thought of the baby's feeding. WELL, need something to pack them all in before we're all to pack for vacation-land and we attended to that too. Searched 'round and 'round and at last we found exactly what we wanted. The "wonder-robe" trunk at The Frank Crook Co. This is very neat-looking, has plenty of storage space, is moth-proof, and has a washable, fade-proof lining. If you don't own a trunk, here's a rare "buy" at $39.50.

If you're thinking about electric refrigeration, you'll be doing yourself a great favor by asking those of your acquaintance who own a Frigidaire, "How do you like your refrigerator?" The Cold Control, a new device and now part of Frigidaire equipment is an exclusive feature. Freezing ice and desserts in a minimum of time. This recent improvement is winning the highest praise and heartiest approval from every Frigidaire owner. You'll understand when you visit the Crockery City Ice & Products Co. and examine their various models, why more and more Frigidaires have been sold than all other electric refrigerators combined.

Preceding the address of the Rev. Mr. Loney a quartet consisting of Len Bloor, the Rev. Mr. Loney, Mark Brownlow and George Mylar, sang "Day is Dying in the West."

The outing was in charge of a committee of which Fred McGillivray was chairman. Other members were Mrs. Mark Brownlow, Miss Pearl Welch and R. W. Bennett.

Accompanied by the rector, the Rev. C. K. Canik, members of Women's Circle, No. 1 of the St. Stephen's church, of West Fourth street were also at the park for the afternoon.

From the campground of the denomination at the foot of the hill came a number of Free Methodists. Among the ministers present were the Rev. Brooks Morgan of Oakland, E. J. Atkinson, of New Brighton and R. N. Large, of Chester, W. Va., with their families.

Two Sunday school classes of the First United Presbyterian church were also at the park. They were pupils taught by Mrs. Thomas Andrews and Mrs. Matthew Andrews.

During the progress of the Methodist Episcopal prayer service, the Rev. Mr. Loney announced that next Sunday the place of the Rev. Dr. Warren O. Hawkins would be taken by the Rev. Mr. W. E. Dean, of Newell, W. Va., a retired minister, in the morning and the Rev. R. C. Ehrheart, of Chester, W. Va., in the evening.

EPWORTH LEAGUE WILL STAGE PLAY

THE Epworth League of the First Methodist Episcopal church will present a play, "Simon's Wife's Mother," in the denomination's social rooms next Tuesday night at 8:15 o'clock for the benefit of the building fund.

When your Children Cry for It

Mothers, who take one simple precaution, are seldom worried. With a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria in the house they can do what their doctor would tell them to do, when baby is fretful, feverish, colicky, constipated or stuffed-up with cold—give a few drops of this pure vegetable, pleasant-tasting preparation. It comforts Baby and soothes him to sleep in a jiffy. It's perfectly safe for the youngest infant. Use it freely—and as often as needed, specialists advise. A more liberal dose is all it takes to comfort and relieve older children, when feverishness, bad breath, no appetite, colds, etc., show they need a good purgative. The mark of genuine Castoria is the Fletcher signature on the wrapper. Look for it to avoid imitations.

CERAMIC CITY SCOUT TO SAIL ON SATURDAY

Keith McCutcheon Will Go to Jamboree In England. TO TOUR EUROPE Parents Will Accompany "Eagle" to New York Friday.

Keith McCutcheon, elder son of Dr. and Mrs. Merle McCutcheon, of Thompson avenue, will represent East Liverpool among 1500 American boys at the world's jamboree of the Boy Scouts at Birkenhead, England, from July 31 to August 12.

As yet but 13 years of age, he has qualified in one year to attend this international function. To arrive at his destination in time for the opening of the jamboree, he will sail from New York City on the White Star line steamer Cedric on Saturday.

He will be accompanied to the nation's metropolis by his parents and his young brother, Jack. They will leave here tomorrow.

Columbiana county will have two other representatives at Birkenhead, John Catlett and Frederick Banfield, both of Wellsville.

Member of Troop 12. The notion of making the trip was conceived in the mind of Keith McCutcheon following his alliance with the Troop 12 of the First Presbyterian church of which Fred Laufberger, of Avondale street, is now the scoutmaster and of which Earl Mosher was then chieftain. The latter is now scoutmaster of Troop 42 of the American Legion.

It was not long after becoming a Boy Scout when Keith McCutcheon heard of the world jamboree to be held this summer in England. He decided that he would like to go. He mentioned the fact to his father and mother. They gave their consent and he wrote for details.

He was advised that one must be an Eagle Scout to make the trip. That meant that he would in turn have to pass through the preceding five classes of tenderfoot, first class, second class, star and life before becoming the coveted "Eagle."

There were some 80 elective courses that formed the steps by which these circuitous routes could be traversed and the mastering of some twenty-five of them would place him in the desired station of eligibility for the foreign mission. He completed 34 of them.

Returns By Way of Canada. Young McCutcheon and the other Scouts will land at Southampton, England, after ten days spent upon the Atlantic.

They will be taken at once upon disembarkment to Arrow park, Birkenhead. There they will engage in the jamboree for two weeks while camping. They will be addressed by the organization's dignitaries and inspected by the Prince of Wales.

Following the breaking up of the camp the visiting scouts are to be taken over England in a bus tour. Then they will cross the English channel into France and will also visit France, Belgium and Germany.

They will return by way of Canada, the leading place being Montreal.

OFF FOR EUROPE

Keith McCutcheon, 13, son of Dr. and Mrs. M. D. McCutcheon, will leave here tomorrow for New York where he will board a steamer for the Atlantic trip to the World Scout Jamboree at Birkenhead, England.

inctive product of East Liverpool, McCutcheon in a sense combines somewhat the Puritan and the Cavalier in his makeup in that his father Dr. McCutcheon is a West Virginian by reason of his nativity in the farming section near Wheeling, while his mother is a member of a Maryland family whose forbears for many years lived in Baltimore.

Twice before him has his father crossed the Atlantic, the last time during the World war when in the medical corps he served in France as a captain. Previously when a student the father took a post-graduate course in the universities of Scotland.

The courses completed by young McCutcheon in acquiring his place as Eagle Scout included first aid, physical development, perfect health, public health, cooking, camping, civics, bird study, path-finding, life-saving, architecture, aviation, book-binding, carpentry, conservation, electricity, firemanship, handicraft, first aid to animals, hiking, leathercraft, masonry, pioneering, plumbing, pottery, reptile study, safety, salesmanship, scholarship, surveying, swimming, textiles, wood-carving and wood-work.

Has Record as Hiker. He has long had a knowledge of various types of aircraft. He has made several models of airships.

He has a record as a hiker. And like all good Boy Scouts he has qualified as a cook.

He will arrive home in time to enter school in September. He is a pupil in the Central building, Fourth street.

He is a regular attendant of the First United Presbyterian church, of West Sixth and Jefferson streets, of which Sunday school he is a member.

PORCELAIN WAR TABLETS PLACED

MEISSEN. — After eight years of steady toil, the greatest porcelain work of art in the world has been formally dedicated. It is the memorial to fallen soldiers in the Nicolai church, which dates from the thirteenth century.

Almost the entire wall space of the small building is covered with porcelain tablets bearing the names of the 1,800 men of Meissen who fell in the World War. Between the various tablets and in the altar room are high reliefs and figures of more than life size, depicting sorrowing mothers and children.

COLUMBUS MAN ADMITS HE SLEW MARRIED WOMAN

Cary Burt Confesses Murder of Mrs. Mamie Schart.

SLASHES THROAT

Prisoner Says He Gave Her $1,500 in Two Years.

COLUMBUS, July 18.—(INS).—A few hours after the woman, whose throat he had slashed, had been laid to rest in a small cemetery in Coanton, a little Jackson county community, Cary Burt, 53, Columbus second-hand clothing and junk dealer, broke down and confessed to the slaying of Mrs. Mamie Schart, 34, here last night.

His confession came after an all-day grilling in the office of County Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr. "Yes, I killed her," Burt sobbed. "I slashed her throat but she forced me to do it."

First Degree Murder Charge. Burt, with a voice wrecked with emotion, related how he had given the woman approximately $1,500 over the two-year period he had known her.

"Last Monday morning," the junk dealer continued, "she asked me for more money. I told her I had none and she threatened to ask a neighborhood filling station attendant, whom she scarcely knew, for money. I lost my temper. I pulled a razor from my pocket, and cut her. That's all there is to it."

A charge of first degree murder was immediately entered against Burt. He is to be arraigned today, and it is expected he will plead "not guilty" and be bound over to the Franklin county grand jury without bond.

Found Dead in Aunt's Home. Mrs. Schart was found dead, with her throat slashed, in the home of her aunt here Monday.

Burt, according to the story which was told police by Eva, Mrs. Schart's 12-year-old daughter, had lain in the yard of the residence all night, drunk.

Police immediately began a search for the killer and Burt was taken in to custody about 24 hours after the crime. He was found in a shack in a none-to-fashionable district. Blood-stained clothes were also found by the arresting detectives.

After two days of work, police had amassed an amount of circumstantial evidence and when faced with this Burt confessed.

Mrs. Schart, who had been estranged from her husband, was buried at Coanton yesterday afternoon. She was a native of Jackson, Jackson county.

Insurance Rates Cut

represents a reduction of approximately 16.23 per cent on this type of fire insurance, insurance men say. Another reduction of six per cent is allowed for certain risks which carry the co-insurance clause. No changes were made in the rates on automobiles.

Fire insurance rates are based on fire protection offered by the municipality. Rates were advanced approximately 10 per cent two years ago, following a survey by the National Board of Fire Underwriters which recommended an increase in the fire department strength, cleaning of water mains, adoption of a building code and passage of legislation prohibiting the storing of explosives. When these recommendations have been complied with, the city will be reclassified and given the benefit of still lower insurance rates, insurance men say.

TODAY

M. S. SLOAN, president of the New York Edison and other electric companies, recently advised his colleagues to cut electricity costs, especially to the small consumers, thus encouraging use of current and modern domestic labor-saving machinery.

NOT talking about philanthropy, but business common sense, Mr. Sloan yesterday announced that his company had cut prices in the Borough of Queens one cent an hour, reducing the company's income by $1,500,000 a year. That will come back—and more.

Henry Ford long ago proved the wisdom of selling cheaply relying on volume.

In a London music hall the "chairman" announced "Mademoiselle Famott will now sing a beautiful song."

A rude person expressed, discourteously, his opinion of the Famott morals.

Dignified, unruffled, the chairman said, "Nevertheless, Mademoiselle Famott will oblige."

WALL STREET is afflicted by a 12 to 20 per cent usury system and Federal Reserve methods concerning which many investors and speculators have their private opinions.

Nevertheless, Wall Street will oblige. Tuesday 50 different stocks reached new high prices.

Sinbad the Sailor kept doggedly on, after the old man of the sea climbed on his shoulders.

United States prosperity goes doggedly ahead, even with the old man of the Federal Reserve sitting aloft, warning of panic and encouraging usury.

GEORGE LUKS, able painter, says "creative" minds begin their period of greatest value at sixty.

Goethe finished the second (and better) part of "Faust" when just seventy.

Titian was painting magnificently, although with colors a little dull, when the plague killed him at ninety.

Voltaire's best period came after seventy. Michael Angelo, past eighty, was greater than any other painter has ever been at any age.

But the average human mind, like concrete, hardens rapidly. When it is hard, no new idea gets in. That's the end. The rest is wasted time.

TRouble between China and Russia grows acute, with Russian railway headquarters seized by Chinese and a Russian railway manager exiled.

War between the big neighbors of Europe and Asia would be deplorable. But it would give history information as to progress made by Russia under Sovietism. And by China under semi-republican government.

CHINA is said not to look upon Russia's message as an ultimatum. That may be a mistake. Prize fighters in quest of "easy money" request managers to pick somebody big, but not a hard hitter.

If Russia contemplates trying her new army and airplanes, China might suit nicely.

WE have still rugged men among us. Captain Crowley, 70 years old, and four miles off the New Jersey coast on his 35-foot sloop, the Emma B., found the ship sinking.

He kicked off his shoes, went over the side, swam four miles to Atlantic City to make sure of collecting his insurance. That's a real story.

Speed Snook Case

Snook sometime today, probably early this afternoon, in the presence of both the defense and state alienists.

With all of the defense and state mental examiners present, Dr. Snook will be obliged to submit to a barrage of questions from eight doctors.

County Prosecutor Chester and Judge Scarlett confidently expect the county alienists to complete their report by Monday. They believe the sanity hearing will start then.

One-week Hearing Looks.

If the jury, at the hearing, finds that Dr. Snook was insane at the time he slew Miss Hix, the deposed university instructor will be bound over to probate court and another hearing will be held to see if he is sane now, and fit to be released into society.

However, if the sanity hearing should result in the declaration that Dr. Snook was sane at the time when he slit the throat of the former university co-ed "to relieve her suffering," the murder trial, over which the shadow of the electric chair will loom, is expected to start.

Prosecutor Chester declared he thought the sanity hearing would last at least a week, if not longer.

Manchuria and are withdrawing Russian women and children from Manchurian summer resorts.

MOSCOW, July 18.—(INS).—The situation between China and Soviet Russia over seizure of the Chinese Eastern railway hovered today between war and peace.

With diplomatic relations between the two nations broken off, the Soviet government has declared itself of the belief that all means of reaching an amicable settlement of the question have been exhausted.

Thus far, no possibility of solving the issue has presented itself, and as things stand today, there is at least a 50 per cent chance of Russia and the Oriental republic bringing the dispute to a head on the field of battle.

Clashes Reported in Balkans.

BERLIN, July 18.—(INS).—While war clouds hung over China and Russia sharp clashes were reported in the Balkans today.

Reports from Kovno stated Polish troops seized a tiny Lithuanian island in the river Markine, shooting three Lithuanian lumberjacks when taking possession.

Messages from Belgrade told of a gun-battle between Yugoslav Gendarmes and Bulgarian comitadjis in eastern Albania.

CITY FIGHTS PHENOL TASTES

Water Works Department Copes With "Spill" in Water.

Equipment installed at the municipal filtration plant recently for the removal of phenal tastes from the city's water supply, is in operation today following the receipt of a warning yesterday that a phenol "spill" had been made at Youngstown.

The machine, which chlorinates water as it is pumped from the Ohio river, was started about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a telegram had been received from F. H. Waring, chief engineer of the state board of health at Columbus.

The phenol, a by-product of coke plants and a number of other industries, was first detected near Youngstown. The Pittsburgh river survey district was immediately notified, which, in turn, advised state boards of health at Columbus, Charleston and Harrisburg. The phenol entered the Ohio river through the Big Beaver at Rochester.

According to City Chemist T. H. Larkins, a slight amount of the phenol water entered the local reservoirs before the warning was received, although the amount is not sufficient to be tasted. The machine, which removes this taste from the water without injurious effects will be kept in operation until a chemical test shows the phenol "spill" to have passed.

These tests for phenol in the water are made at the water works every two hours.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

By W. S. COUSINS

International News Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, July 18.—With the exception of a few high priced specialties, stock prices moved in a narrow range in trading up to noon today.

Speculators throwing over their stocks on the usual "Thursday nervousness" over reserve board reports and rediscount rates found ready buyers near the levels of Wednesday's final prices.

Oils and coppers made a better showing and money was in good supply at 8 per cent.

Battling of swords between Russia and China was hardly considered as a stock market factor of any importance. Neither nation has any credit in the outside financial markets, and would hardly attempt to borrow money or to buy war materials in the United States in any considerable volume.

Profit-taking and professional selling was therefore held responsible for the irregularity of industrial stocks in the early trading.

Copper stocks stiffened on assurances of leading producers that the price of the red metal will not break 18 cents. Shorts in radio were squeezed when the stock was run up 3 points to $12. John Manville continued its spectacular rise and gained about 6 points at 198.

How Schoolteacher Gained 18 Pounds and New Energy

"I am a public school instructor," writes Mr. Linus L. Clark, "and from my study I was convinced that Ironized Yeast was exactly what I needed to put me in shape. I took only two bottles and gained 18 lbs. More than that. Ironized Yeast brought more energy, greater endurance and an improved complexion."

You can believe letters like this. Thousands who were doubtful at first write they gained 5 to 20 pounds often in 3 weeks. "Skinny" limbs changed to graceful roundness. Skin clears. Tired feeling vanishes.

Only when Yeast is Ironized is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building and strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant tablets in a handy bottle. Safe for everybody. Never cause gas or bloating; no harmful drugs.

Go to any drugstore today and get a full size treatment of Ironized Yeast. If after this generous trial you are not delighted, money back from drugstore or manufacturer.—Adv.

A NEW ROAD TO ROME!

THE "PATHFINDER" BLAZES NEW TRAIL ACROSS THE ATLANTIC WITH

VEEDOL MOTOR OIL and TYDOL GASOLINE

Above... ON THE TAKE-OFF MORNING. Navigator Lewis A. Yancey and Pilot Roger Q. Williams, just before starting the first leg of their historic flight.

To Right... EVERY GALLON COUNTED! On their 19 gallons of VEEDOL Motor Oil and 440 gallons of TYDOL Aviation Gasoline, the Maine-to-Rome flyers staked their hopes of success.

A new record to write in aviation's history... A strange new plane circling the hills of Rome... And another addition to the long list of flying honors already held by VEEDOL Motor Oil!

For the "Pathfinder" gave VEEDOL and TYDOL one of the most thrilling airplane tests ever given motor oil and gasoline... 4,700 miles... 3,400 miles across the grim Atlantic... fighting headwinds and forced to climb 12,000 feet to surmount the blinding fog... And not a falter, not a slip, not even a momentary failure of lubrication or fuel.

The Graf Zeppelin has reported perfect performance, by VEEDOL, under the most adverse conditions, on all its famous flights. The Byrd Expedition chose VEEDOL... Martin Jensen broke the world's solo endurance record with VEEDOL and Hi-test TYDOL... Now comes this spectacular flight to Rome to prove to you anew that...

The motor in your own car will get greater protection, more power and a smoother flow of speed from VEEDOL Motor Oil... Ready for you... in the same air-proved quality that breaks economy and service records on the roads as easily as it sets new flying standards in the skies... at any orange and black VEEDOL sign.

REVOLUTIONARY IN 1924—STILL MORE SO TODAY

APR 19 1924

"It was inevitable that Chrysler should attract a degree of scientific interest accorded no other car in the past fifteen years. + Engineers, naturally, were first to appreciate that Chrysler, while adhering strictly to soundest principles of design, is a distinct departure from previous motor car practice and performance. + They recognize in Chrysler an advance in automobile engineering as revolutionary as the development of the X-ray in medicine."

—Advertisement Literary Digest April 19, 1924

HOW HAS CHRYSLER DONE IT?

When an unknown motor car sets out—as Chrysler did—to grasp the leadership of a great industry, and with the speed of a meteor, sweeps to a foremost position in popularity and sales, it must possess extraordinary quality and ability.

When the first Chrysler car was placed on exhibition five years ago, the whole industry looked in amazement at what Walter P. Chrysler had accomplished. Within four years, Chrysler had leaped to third place in the industry.

How has Chrysler done it? What is the secret of this success? Simply that Chrysler gave in the beginning—each year since has given increasingly—and today gives in still greater measure—not only a finer grade of basic quality but a higher order of performance, beauty, style, power, acceleration, safety, comfort—all at most reasonable prices.

Such sweeping success must prove inevitably to the buyer of a Chrysler car today that he can count on the most advanced, the soundest, the safest and the most satisfying motor transportation his money can command. Let us prove these facts in a demonstration.

CHRYSLER "75"—$1535 to $1795—Eight Body Styles. CHRYSLER "65"—$1040 to $1145—Six Body Styles. All prices f. o. b. factory. Chrysler dealers extend convenient time payments.

Boosters Defeat Cubans 5-4

Inter-City League Stars Triumph Over Havanans.

The Newell Boosters, representing a collection of Inter-City league stars, defeated the Havana Red Sox yesterday afternoon at Newell park, 5 to 4, before a large crowd, all of which might indicate there are some pretty fair ball players in the district.

The Boosters pounded the delivery of two Cuban batters for 10 bingles. Pope, a Midland hurler, and Don Stoffel of the Kates worked the slab for the locals. The dusky visitors got to Pope for nine hits in six innings while Stoffel limited them to one safe rap in the final three frames.

Schultz and Bayley of the Boosters and Ferrar and Pipo of the Red Sox led the hitters with two safe drives apiece.

Crawford, in middle for the locals, contributed one of the real fielding gems of the season when he made a sensational bare handed stab of Pipo's bid for a homer, turning it into a double play when he threw to Bayley to retire Ferrar.

The Boosters got this one run back and one more with it in the same frame. Crawford doubled. Schultz beat out a hit to short. Crawford then was trapped between third and home and while he was being run down, Schultz continued on to the hot corner. McConnell then up and cracked out a triple, scoring Schultz. Pipo bobbed Buzzard's grounder at second, McConnell coming.

Boosters scored again in the second on Bayley's single, Billy Watson's sacrifice and Pumphrey's hit over first.

The Cubans tied it up in the fourth, scoring two runs on a pair of walks, a brace of stolen bases, a hit and an error. Two bingles and a sacrifice fly gave them a run and the lead in the fifth but they didn't hold it long, the Boosters chasing two runs across in the last of the fifth to force to the front.

Chap Finley led off with a triple to center. Finley was safe at home and Crawford at first when Chap beat out the throw to the plate on Crawford's infield drive. Crawford purlined second and third and finished with the winning marker on Schultz double to center.

Campolo Is Winner In Third

DeKuh is Disqualified After Low Punch.

By Sid Mercer.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Victor Campolo, giant ox-slayer from the Argentine, went on trial last night at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, before a fistie jury which is still debating the question of whether he is a worthy successor to the old wild bull of the Pampas, Louis Angel Firpo. The jury is still out on Campolo because he did not travel far enough with Arthur De Kuh, another goliath of the ring, to determine his real class.

In justice to the newcomer, however, it must be admitted that he was cutting De Kuh down rapidly with stiff punches to the body and had him holding on in the third round when the tall Brooklynite was disqualified by Referee Jack Denning for hitting low with his right hand. De Kuh had been guilty of at least four low shots and had previously drawn two warnings from the referee.

Although Campolo was doubled up in pain after being struck low in the second round, he came out for the third round apparently in good shape and was not hurt by the low right that provoked the referee to disqualification of De Kuh.

The Argentine giant, weighing 224 pounds, battled from a crouch. De Kuh weighed 217 pounds and might have evened up Campolo's digs to the body if he had led with his right from a distance that would have enabled him to put something on it. He can hit as hard with that right as any man in the ring today but his timidity against good punchers and the old inferiority complex were beating him when the referee called it a night.

On the other hand, the Chester club right along has contended there was no ground for protest and that the club was fully entitled to the victory, Manager Les McMath declaring he was willing to abide by the ruling of any competent authority.

A description of the play was written and agreed to by managers of both clubs and rulings were obtained from "The Sporting News," St. Louis, Mo.; John Gruber, official scorer for the Pittsburgh National league club; Regis Welsh, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Post Gazette; James J. Long, sports writer for the Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph; Triple A league officials in Cleveland; Tom Pemberton, organizer of municipal sports in Youngstown; William Klem, National league umpire; and last, but not least, Billy Evans, former American League umpire and now business head of the Cleveland American league club.

Klem said it was largely up to the judgment of the umpire.

Evans says the play is all a part of the game and happens very often. He also stresses the importance of intentional interference. Various terms were used in the rulings but all apparently agreed that it rested largely with the judgment of the umpire as to the ruling on the field.

Long declared that as long as the umpire did not call time, the runner going from first to second, who, it seemed in this skirmish, was McConnell, advanced at his own risk.

And McConnell's retirement was the final putout of the game.

In ruling that he did not think there were grounds for protest, Billy Evans said: "Such plays happen very often and are considered a part of the game, unless in the opinion of the umpire there was intentional interference on the part of the fielder so as to prevent the runner from properly advancing. There seems to be none in this play and I would say all was regular as played."

On the other hand, the Chester club right along has contended there was no ground for protest and that the club was fully entitled to the victory, Manager Les McMath declaring he was willing to abide by the ruling of any competent authority.

Surfacing of Calcutta Section of East Palestine Highway is Under Way.

LISBON, O., July 18.—The Laughlin Coal & Supply company, of Canton today was pouring the last concrete on the St. Clair township section of the East Liverpool-East Palestine road. It was announced by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk. This section, 3.78 miles in length, will be opened to traffic on or about Aug. 10. The Canton company was awarded this project on its bid of $105,824.40.

On the Negley-Rogers road, the Al-Hison-Harris company, of East Liverpool has poured two miles of concrete. About five miles of road is to be poured.

The halfway mark has been passed by George H. Patterson of Wellsville who was awarded the contract for surfacing the Elkton-Clarkson road. This road is to be improved from Elkton eastward to connect with the East Liverpool-Youngstown highway, a distance of 4.41 miles. About a month will be required to finish the road from the east to Elkton, where an improved highway into Lisbon is tapped.

Elkton Highway Begins. The Agreste Construction company of Cleveland, will complete the grading and drainage structures on the new Youngstown-Lisbon road within two weeks. This road extends northeast from the "flat iron" on the Leetonia-Lisbon highway into Columbiana. It is the intention of the state highway department to put a traffic bound surface on this road this year.

Grading of the Elkton-Signal-Rogers road is now under way, this contract having been awarded to Ben Francis of East Palestine. A steam shovel has been placed on this project. The grading begins at Elkton. This road will not be surfaced until next spring.

Two concrete abutments and one pier have been poured for the new Negley bridge on the East Liverpool-East Palestine road by H. C. Armstrong of Lisbon. One pier and the superstructure remain to be poured. The time set for the completion of this project is Sept. 30. When the bridge is finished, two small sections of concrete road will be poured.

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who need it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never

J. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.—Adv.

THERE IS THE CALIFORNIA CRUDE OIL

From Which Is Refined "The World's Greatest Anti-Knock Motor Fuel"

NEVER NOX GASOLINE

Colored Purple - A Mark of Distinction

The anti-knock or non-detonating property of a gasoline is due to its chemical composition. Gasoline derived from crude oil contains the four hydrocarbon groups of paraffin, unsaturated naphthene (such as NEVER NOX), and aromatic series such as benzol, in varying percentages dependent upon the type of crude petroleum being refined.

The naphthene hydrocarbon types of gasoline (such as NEVER NOX), have a chemical constitution which under the oxidation conditions of a motor cylinder burn relatively quietly with very little tendency toward explosive reaction. The naphthenes have anti-knock properties which increase the utility of gasoline for combustion purposes.

They are present in relatively high percentages in the normal gasoline from crude oil produced in California. (NEVER NOX is a California product). The cracking process produces naphthene hydrocarbons as a function of the high temperature and pressure conditions prevailing during the cracking retraction. The higher the percentage of naphthene present in a motor fuel the higher its anti-knock properties.

Hands Unseen

New Mystery Story of "Gray Phantom," Lovable Outlaw.
By Herman Landon

Copyright by Street and Smith Corporation.

"You're flattering Old Nick when you compare him with The Gray Phantom," remarked Bell, edging forward.

Ignoring him, Bowman went bustling about the room, looking under the bed and searching the dressing cabinet and the clothes press. Culligore assisted, but only in a half-hearted way, as if realizing that it was wasted effort.

"Looks as though he's given us the slip," he muttered when every conceivable portion of the room had been searched.

Bowman scratched his battling jaw and scowled heavily.

"What did you expect?" drawled Bell, calmly lighting a cigarette. "Don't you know that getting out of tight corners is The Gray Phantom's favorite diversion?"

"Well, it was a regular Phantom get-away, all right." "Did you tell me that there was a young lady with him?" inquired Stanhope, looking somewhat ill at ease in his incomplete attire.

"Miss Hardwick. Where she came from Heaven only knows. I caught them in the vestibule as they were about to slip out. Say, you," addressing one of the servants who stood shivering in the doorway, "run out to the garage and see if any of the cars is missing."

The servant withdrew. Bowman looked suspiciously into the dim corners of the room, as if not yet ready to accept the staggering fact that The Phantom had escaped. Stanhope demonstrated his passion for regularity by adjusting the fender, which had been jarred a few inches out of its place before the grate. Bell made himself comfortable in one of the two armchairs in the room.

"Has it occurred to you," remarked the lawyer, "that in making this extraordinary exit, The Phantom only duplicated the escape of Craig's murderer? You brilliant detectives have not figured out how the murderer left the room—or how he entered, for that matter. Doubtless The Phantom followed the same method of departure as was used by the murderer."

Bell gave him an amused glance. "That makes everything perfectly clear, doesn't it? Just show us how it was done, and the mystery will be cleared up."

Culligore's eyes were fixed on Stanhope in a meditative way. "You almost hit the nail on the head that time. Mr. Stanhope, I agree with you that The Phantom probably got out the same way as the murderer did. What puzzles me is this. Half a dozen people have searched this room for a hidden exit, including myself. We didn't find even so much as a mouse hole. The Phantom wasn't in here more than ten or fifteen minutes before he found a way out. How do you explain it?"

With a shrewd look in his eyes he searched the faces in the room.

"That's easy," said Bell. "The Phantom happens to be just a little bit cleverer than the rest of us, including me and you."

"I perceive the drift of your remarks," said Stanhope to the lieutenant. "You mean to imply that The Phantom knew the way out all the time. In other words, when he made his escape from this room a few minutes ago, he merely went back over the same trail he covered the night of the murder. To put it plainly, The Phantom is the murderer."

"Exactly, Mr. Stanhope. Ever since the murder I've been telling myself that when I found somebody who knew a way out of this room other than the door and the window, I would have found the man that murdered Craig. Good logic, eh?"

"Logic is rot," declared Bell in a drawl.

Culligore was warming up to his argument. "A little while ago I wasn't dead sure that the Phantom killed Craig, in spite of the letters he wrote and all the other evidence. Now I'm sure. The Phantom convicted himself when he gave us the slip a few minutes ago. He proved to us then that he knows a way out of this room that nobody else knows."

"An interesting argument, but rather loosely constructed," was the lawyer's comment. "You must admit it is conceivable that more than one person is familiar with the secret exit."

"It's conceivable, all right, but not very likely. There isn't more than one chance in a million that any one else knows about the other exit. And I'll go one step further. I'll bet a pair of pink socks that the person who killed Craig killed William, too."

His eyes, with a hint of a challenge in them, swept the faces of the listeners. They tarried for a moment on the lawyer's fine, dark countenance. Stanhope was plainly ill at ease, but probably he was uncomfortably conscious of the deficiencies in his dress. Culligore's brows curved upward as the lawyer's eyes fell beneath his gaze, but whatever perplexities he felt were interrupted by the return of the servant who had been sent to the garage. He reported that one of the cars, a high-powered sedan, was missing.

Bowman growled under his breath, then obtained a description of the car and hurried out in search of a telephone.

Stanhope rocked reflectively on his heels. His black eyes were quite tranquil again, and he faced Culligore with an affable smile. "Of course," he murmured, "some of us have suspected all along the Gray Phantom killed my client. Your argument is a little shaky, but on the whole it affords strong collateral proof. I was surprised when you told me a little while ago that Philip Dawson was none other than the Phantom, yet I had my suspicions about the fellow from the start. Why do you suppose he came back here in disguise?"

"Because it wasn't safe for him to come back here any other way."

"But why did he come back at all?"

Culligore scowled. "Don't ask me why the Phantom did this or that. He always has a good reason, but his reasons are hard to understand. I don't know exactly why he killed Craig, but—"

"You're going too fast," Bell interrupted. "I hate to rip up a fine argument, but yours has a hole in it big enough for an elephant to step through. Don't think I'm trying to plug for the Gray Phantom. He can take care of himself. It he's guilty, I hope you convict him. That would let me out."

"Nobody has accused you, Bell," the lieutenant reminded him.

"But some people have been doing some tall thinking. I'd be glad to see the Phantom juggled just because it would clear little old Harry Bell. No use going off half-cocked, though. Maybe the Phantom killed Craig, but your argument doesn't prove he did."

"How so?"

"Your idea is that the Phantom convicted himself when he demonstrated that he knows a secret way out of this room. Well, evidently he does, but so does another person."

"Who?" asked Culligore sharply.

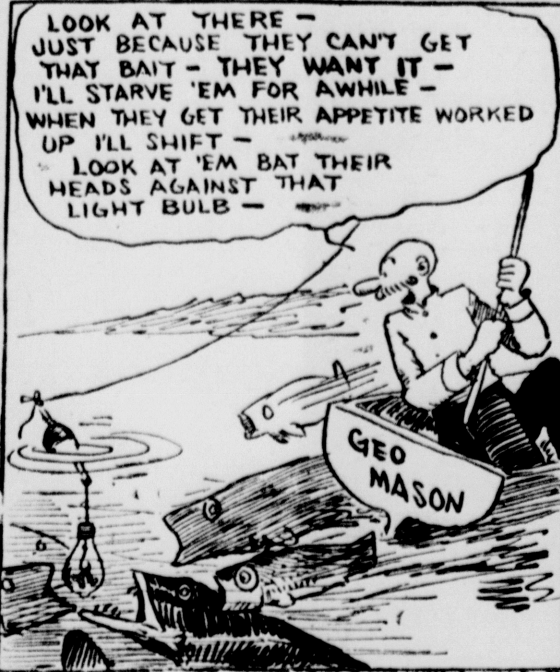

"Don't know his name. Let me tell you something. I came up to this room tonight, about 3 o'clock, to pay our friend Dawson a visit. I found him groggy from a tap on the bean. He had been badly mugged up, too. His glasses had been knocked off, and his beard didn't look just right. Well, I saw at a glance that Dawson was the Gray Phantom. It gave him a little shock, I guess, to be recognized, but I told him he needn't worry on my account. Then he told me what had happened, or as much as he knew of it or cared to tell. It began with three raps on the door, just as the night Craig was murdered. The Phantom opened it, of course, but there was not one in the hall, and the first thing he knew the light went out and he heard a voice back in the corner. I don't know the details after that, but when he let me in he was the sorriest looking sight I ever laid eyes on. Doesn't that look as though somebody else knew a secret way in and out of this room?"

Culligore seemed impressed, but in a moment he chuckled derisively. "The Phantom was only throwing dust in your eyes. He handed you a cock-and-bull story. I'm surprised you fell for it, Bell."

"Yes? Just think a moment. His wooziness might have been only a bit of good acting, but would he have mugged up his disguise just to throw dust in my eyes? Is that reasonable? Remember that he was masquerading as Philip Dawson and that there was no reason for him to come out in the open as the Gray Phantom."

Culligore thought for a moment, then shook his head.
